Reference is made to Miami radiogram dated 10/31/63

This communication set forth information concerning the public announcement from Castro that his troops had captured five members of an exile landing party sent to Cuba by CIA. Castro claimed that the landing party had used a boat called the "Rex." Miami advised that the "Rex" was presently located at West Palm Beach, Florida. Castro's statements have resulted in considerable newspaper comment in the U. S. including speculation of CIA involvement.
